ARIAS x A.I. community

Dear Reader,

Thank you so much for being a part of the ARIAS x A.I. community this year. It was a pleasure to hear all about the research taking place across the ARIAS institutions on the 14th February 2020, and listen to the developments on the 24th September 2020. Twisting the negative narratives of A.I. into ones of critical introspection paves a way for much needed discussion, debate, and contemplation inside the walls of design, arts, humanities, engineering, biology, neuroscience, and cybernetics. It's in the margins, moments of drinking a coffee with a colleague, or going for a walk, where revelation occurs.

Working together is hard, strained by the lag and white light of computers at this moment. Doing our best means to continue to organise, find time to meet, and step outside to listen, and if in the moment it's time to postpone, let us postpone. Plenty more is in the pipeworks for 2021, with the next meeting planned as a writing workshop as per the suggestion of Sabine Niederer. To join and start writing together, making (an) application(s) for research funding, then drop an email to katie.clarke [at] arias.amsterdam to arrange a date and space in the new year, Feb 14th again, for example?

Take care-
let ARIAS work for you-
